Summary of Contents

Primarily, those speeches listed on the attached page have emphasized either one or two or all of the following themes, depending upon the type of audience, the type of occasion, as well as the length of time given for a speech.

THEMES

1. The closeness which now exists between Japan and the United States. This favorable situation has been brought about by:

- 1) People-to-people contact
- 2) Mass communications
- 3) Mutually profitable economic relations

2. Japan-United States trade relations:

- 1) New facts and figures concerning Japan-U.S. trade to interpret and illustrate profitable economic relations
- 2) What and how much Japan buys from the United States, and vice versa.

3. Furthering better understanding of Japanese, as well as Asian ways of thinking and doing things among American people so that those interested in doing business in and with Japan and other Asian nations may be helped in acquiring needed background information for successful ventures. Such background information includes:

- 1) Japan's economic growth and underlying factors
- 2) Living standard and wages in Japan
- 3) Women's roles in the present-day Japan
- 4) Industrial designs in Japan
- 5) Japan's patent system -- its history and current situations
- 6) Myths versus reality about Japan
- 7) How to interpret facts and figures on Japan:
  - Not extracting them from a given context
  - Re-examining assumptions
  - Recognizing different concepts
  - Paying more attention to one's thinking process
